CVAP-Seminar on Political Psychology

Program for professor Howie Lavine’s visit

Friday the 8th March 2013

Location: Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen,
Øster Farimagsgade 5, room 4.2.50

11:00 Keynote by Professor Howie Lavine, University of Minnesota, Department of Political science
(http://www.polisci.umn.edu/people/profile.php?UID=lavine)
The Ambivalent Partisan: How Critical Loyalty Promotes Democracy

12:15: Lunch

Short presentation (maximum five slides, no paper)

13:00 Rasmus Tue Pedersen: The framing of Values

13:20 Bolette Danckert & Peter Thisted Dinesen: Salient Political Events and Welfare State Support:
Can Major Political Events Cause Sudden Moves in Welfare State Attitudes?

13:40 Yosef Bhatti, Kasper M. Hansen, & Asmus L. Olsen: Media kills: following the effect of a political scandal minute by minute on public opinion

14:00 Coffee

14:10 Asmus L. Olsen: Social vs. historical Comparisons of Performance

14:30 Frederik Hjorth: Group implication and welfare state politics

14:50 Jonas Hedegaard Hansen: How Party leader debates effect voters – selection and perception biases

15:10 Coffee

15:20 Kasper M. Hansen & Karina Kosiara-Pedersen: How campaigns polarize the electorate – the minimal effect thesis in a multi-party system

15:40 Jens Olav Dahlgaard: Why do people vote? Social approval as motivational factor

16:00 Break

18:00 Workshop Dinner (10 persons: Howie, Kasper, Jonas, Yosef, Bolette, Jens Olav, Søren Risbjerg, Asmus, Peter, Frederik)